

I am concerned that the transition to digital broadcasting will spell the demise of my favorite radio station...as well as about the surely incontrovertible fact that if this transition takes place, all current radio technology will be rendered obsolete. I urge you to take time to consider this issue carefully and not listen only to the mainstream, large broadcasters, but also to smaller independent, local and non-profit stations, as well as to the consumers...or more pertinently, CITIZENS.